Directions Training Relocates and Expands Chicago Training Facility

Chicago, Ill., Dec-2011- Directions Training, a global provider of learning solutions, has recently relocated their Chicago training facility to a new state-of-the-art training center. The move was necessary to add additional classrooms to accommodate student demand.

“The goal of the move was simply two fold, one, to run more classes to accommodate student demand, and two, to upgrade the facility with the latest IT hardware,” said President Jennifer Didier. “The space is brand new, from the desks to the chairs, to the PC’s, to the paint on the walls, this facility was fully designed with the student in mind.”

Prior to the move Directions Training spent a great deal of time surveying students to gage what they would like to see in the classroom. “We took the students feedback and turned it into a reality, said Didier. “For over 20 years we have made our students our first priority and we continue with that tradition today.”

Still located at 208 S. LaSalle in downtown Chicago, the facility is easily accessible by public transportation and is close to both O’Hare International and Midway International Airports, making it convenient for students to obtain the training they need. “We are still located in the same building, we just moved to a larger suite,” said Didier. “We love the building; we just needed more space, so we moved down the hall.”

The new facility features 6 classrooms with the latest IT hardware. This center will continue to host classes on various technologies including Microsoft, CompTIA, Citrix, Cisco, Oracle, Project Management and much more.

“We have a long history of providing the highest quality education available at a reasonable price, and we plan to continue this tradition at our new Chicago facility,” said Didier. “We are thrilled to provide our students with the training they need in a brand new state-of-the-art training center.”
